

DISCUSSION BUBBLES

These discussion starters can be handed out to small groups to aid group discussion.

They are also useful to have cut and laminated in order pull out during ICT lessons to have a quick discussion. Always keeping internet safety at the forefront of children and young people's minds whenever they access the internet.

There is also a page of blank speech bubbles which can be edited to suit your cohort. You could challenge the students to write their own to share with each other.

After any discussion it is always a good idea to remind students that tootoot is always there for them day or night for any concerns, internet based or otherwise.

DISCUSSION BUBBLES

You are on a website when an advert pops up to say you've won a prize and asks you to click on it.

What should you do?

Can you think of an example of fake news or false information you have seen online?

How did it make you feel?

You have been gaming with a person online for a long time, chatting most days. You haven't met them in person before. They ask to meet up.

What should you do?

Someone sends you an image that upsets you.

What should you do?

You have been chatting with someone online and they want to call you on the phone.

What should you do?

A friend asks you to send an inappropriate picture of yourself to them.

What should you do?

DISCUSSION BUBBLES

